[57] ABSTRACT

An eyeglass holder suitable in an article of clothing worn by the user for suspending a pair of eyeglasses. The eyeglasses are suspended facing upward and supported by the bridge of the eyeglasses with the temples either open and downward extending or folded closed. When open, the temples are supported from substantial movement against the body of the user. A sliding, pivotable retaining member holds the bridge from substantial movement as well. An reinforcement (generally) holds the temples in the closed position for better protection thereof.
